1929 Administration Whip Goes Down in Lieut. Gov. Campaign

LITTLE ROCK, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Through action of the voters in last week's primary, two 1929 house administration leaders have been sent to the senate, one as presiding officer, while the 1929 senate administration leader was not returned, a roster of 1931 members has revealed.

Lawrence E. Wilson, who piloted administration legislation through the 1929 house, will return to the 1931 general assembly as president of the senate, through his nomination as lieutenant governor.

Dr. W. H. Abbingdon, representative from White county and speaker of the 1929 house, has been nominated as senator from his district and will take his place in that body in January.

Senator Festus O. Butt, of Eureka Springs, who guided administration affairs through the 1929 senate session, was defeated in his race for lieutenant governor. His senatorial district will be represented in 1931 by M. L. Shuster.

Nineteen New Senators
In all, 19 new faces will be seen in the 1931 senate, while 24 representatives were returned from last session.

In the Thirty-first senatorial district, comprising Garland and Monticony counties, a race between Ogra Cobb of Caddo Gap, one of the two Republican members of the 1929 house, and chairman of the Republican state convention, and Walter Whaley of Hot Springs, Democratic nominee, is promised in the general election in November.

Two of the administration's most inveterate foes in the 1929 session were returned—Curtis Cannon of Hempstead county, and D. W. Johnston of Johnson county.

Likewise, two legislators classed as independents, Irving C. Neale of Sebastian and James Campbell of Sevier, were returned and both have announced as candidates for speaker of the 1931 house. Two others also have announced—W. H. K. McCabe of Baxter county, and H. U. Toney of Pine Bluff.

Another 1929 independent, Alfred J. Hall of Logan county, author of the Hall income tax act, saw defeat in his recent race for re-nomination. Only one woman, compared with two in 1929, will serve as members of the house in 1931. Mrs. Ethel C. Cunningham of Yell county, was elected and will enjoy the distinction of being

Violent Rain Storm
Strikes Nevada County

PRESCOTT, Aug. 20.—A violent rain, wind and electrical storm did considerable damage in Prescott and vicinity late Monday. Electricity was shut off for a few minutes when lightning struck a heavily charged line near the municipal power plant. The wind blew down many trees in the city and a fallen tree partly blocked highway 67 south of here.

A church was reported demolished on the Blewins road, seven miles west of here and a house in the same vicinity was damaged considerably.

Hot Springs Man Shot During Rooming House Quarrel

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 20.—(AP)—S. D. Roop, 60, barber who came here recently from Hot Springs, Ark., was shot and probably fatally wounded Tuesday at his rooming house in what police described as a quarrel with three other men.

Mrs. Martha Poulas, operator of the house, her daughter, Mrs. Beulah Banton and Roop's daughter, Mrs. Melba Wright, were being held for questioning, according to Fred Thomas, chief of detectives, while three men who sought to force an entrance to the women's apartments were being sought by police.

Thomas quoted Mrs. Wright as saying the men, whom she knew only by their first names, and the woman had visited a roadhouse last night. Upon their return one of the men tried to enter a room occupied by one of the women. Roop remonstrated and a quarrel followed. Then one of the men drew a revolver and shot Roop in the side below the heart. The men fled.

Trees Also Tan
From Sun Burn

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 20.—(UPI)—Scientists have known for a long time that trees eat, sleep, digest, freeze and strangle themselves after the manner of humans. Now comes forward the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories of this city to state that trees suffer from sun burn.

"Sun scald," as it is called, is caused by the direct withering and drying out of bark tissues caused by excessive heat. Low humidity and the drying action of the wind contribute to the sunburn as well as the sun's rays.

Mosquito Threat
Draws Statement
From Dr. Carrigan

City Health Officer Warns Against Refrigerator Drain Pipes

CONDITION IS GOOD

Carrigan Finds Drouth Has Cut Out Normal Breeding Places

Local householders were warned in a statement today from Dr. P. B. Carrigan, city health officer, to drain off refrigerator water which collects beneath houses and makes a breeding place for mosquitoes.

Dr. Carrigan's statement, which followed complaints of increased mosquitoes in Ward One, said:

"There have been a good many complaints on mosquitoes in town, especially from Ward One. For the past several days I have made a thorough investigation of the premises complained of; and have also inspected several lily ponds in private yards. Ordinarily, these would be ideal breeding places for the mosquito, if these ponds were not filled with fish, but I found native minnows and plenty of gold fish in each of them which keep the mosquitoes away. These ponds are all free of any larvae floating on the water, and there are no eggs on the surface of the water, nor plants in them.

Few Tin Cans
"We have had such dry hot weather for the past few months, I found no breeding places around tin cans with standing water in them. In Ward One one of the covers on Elm Street does not have good drainage and some larvae and a few eggs were found there. This sewer gave us no trouble last year, as we had rain every few weeks, and this kept the larvae and eggs washed away, so the eggs did not have a chance to hatch. On my inspection over Hope, however, had running water underneath from the refrigerator, connected with the pipes. In some places there are pools of from four to six feet square, filled with water, and there were quantities of mosquitoes underneath these homes. These are indeed ideal breeding places, it is cool and shady there, and the mosquitoes that have been hatched on the outskirts of town this hot dry weather are driven to shady places under the houses, and some of them have been blown into your homes.

"Hope can easily be freed of this infectious insect, if each family, who is annoyed with same, will look around their premises and investigate carefully, and find out just where these breeding places are. Also ask your

Mysterious Girl Writer
Is Panic for Bachelors

Letter From Yonkers Says Lady Wishes To Hear From Western Men—But Nobody Seems Willing To Carry a Gun or Ride a Horse

Hope's bachelor circles were thrown into a panic this week when one of the members received a letter from a mysterious correspondent.

It appears that some kind of letter-writing organization has been perfected by Eastern girls with the purpose of getting in touch with Western men. The first of the letters arrived Monday, addressed correctly to a local bachelor.

His name might have been listed in the various trade journals, but how he was known to be a bachelor 1,500 miles away remained a complete mystery.

The letter on hand in Hope today sounds like something belonging to the Lonesome Clubs, which were organized a couple of years ago. There was one such club in Little Rock, and another in El Dorado. The consensus of opinion among Hope's bachelors, in conference over Monday's letter, was that a similar organization was operating in the East, and this letter was from one of the members.

Up to noon today no reply had been filed; it appeared unlikely that any one individual would commit himself, and the collaboration of several men

Star Publishes Corrected Table on Official County Vote

Results of the township races for Justice of the Peace, constable and road overseer, are still unavailable. The Star found at noon today—more than a week after the election.

The Star has been attempting to get these results for publication ever since the election, but returns could not be found either in Washington or Hope.

In today's edition The Star is publishing the complete official vote on county offices. An earlier table, published Saturday, was supposed to have been official, but had not been checked and certified, it was learned later. About 150 corrections in box and total returns appear in today's table, which has been certified to by J. O. Johnson and W. H. Etter Sr., chairman and secretary, respectively, of the Democratic County Central Committee which managed the 1930 election.

Star readers who clip out official election table for their scrapbooks are kindly asked to destroy the one published last Saturday and substitute today's table, which is correct.

Believed Van Lear Black Fell Into Ocean and Is Drowned

SEARCH BEING MADE

Search of Water Being Made For the State's Richest Man

BALTIMORE, Aug. 20.—(AP)—Van Lear Black, multi-millionaire Baltimore publisher, capitalist and world flier disappeared from his yacht off the New Jersey coast Monday night, and although sea and aircraft, including the naval dirigible Los Angeles, continued to search today, it is believed he perished.

John J. Kelley, captain of the yacht, the Sabalo, a twin-screw, oil-burning craft, brought to his disappearance Tuesday to New York, whence he telephoned to Black's associates in Baltimore. Aid of coast guard and other craft was obtained and search resumed.

The Los Angeles, scheduled to make a practice flight from Lakehurst, N. J., Tuesday was instructed by the navy department to keep a close watch along the coast line. Coast guard vessels also were ordered to help, at the request of the Baltimore Sun, of which Black was publisher.

The opinion that the publisher, known in many countries for his airplane flights, fell accidentally from a dangerous perch on the rail of the yacht, which he was accustomed to use despite the warnings of the captain, was expressed by Kelley.

On the deck was found a handkerchief.

Agricultural Department Makes Report on the Conditions

RAINS ARE REPORTED

Several States Had Rain But Only Enough For Temporary Relief

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—(AP)—President Hoover called the first meeting of the National drouth conference for this afternoon.

At this meeting organization and preliminary steps for the work to be done will be outlined. A report from the United States Department of Agriculture stating that rains had fallen over most parts of the stricken area during the past week was received by the President this morning. The report stated, however, that in numerous sections the serious situation is still "largely unrelieved."

Included in the states that have not had sufficient rainfall are: most of Ohio, New York, Michigan, Minnesota, much of Montana, West Tennessee, south Arkansas, north Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas. In these sections crops continue to deteriorate.

With reports of cooler weather and rain falling over large areas, it is thought that helpful rainfall will be had in these sections within the next few days.

Newport Youth Is Drowned In River

Seven Year Old Boy Loses Life Near Business Section

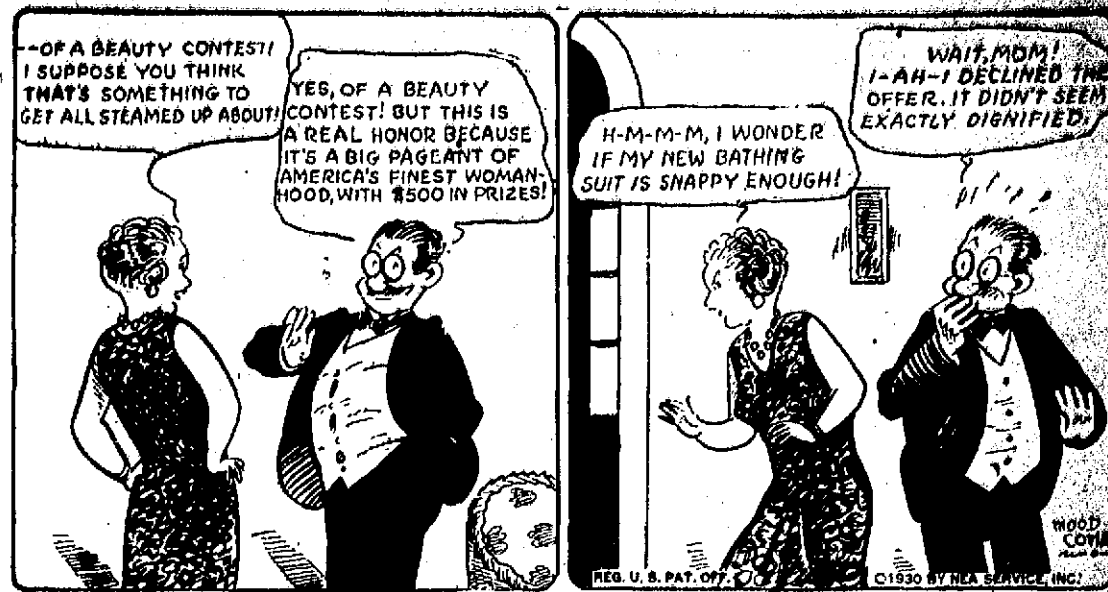

NEWPORT, Aug. 20.—Cheola Johnson, aged seven, drowned Tuesday afternoon in White river, across the railroad tracks directly in front of the business section. His body was not recovered for several hours and efforts at resuscitation were futile. Surviving are the father, Walter Johnson; two sisters, Juanita and Bonnie; and two brothers, Wanda and Walter Jr. The mother died several months ago following a long illness and during that time the children earned money to buy comforts for her. Cheola sold pencils on the streets and those who knew him contributed the money today to defray his funeral expenses.

NATCHES, Miss., Aug. 20.—(AP)—The Robert E. Lee, Jr., abandoned its race up the Mississippi river because of a bent propeller shaft.

Back to Earth After 27 Days!

It was a gala day in Fairbault, Minn., home town of Dale (Red) Jackson, when the endurance flyer and his co-pilot, Forest O'Brien, established a new world's airplane endurance record before landing after 647½ hours—or approximately 27 days—in the air over St. Louis. This unique float, with a propeller from one of Jackson's planes, was the center of attraction. Note the "refueling" system. Hundreds joined in the celebration.

Their feet on solid ground for the first time in nearly a month, Dale (Red) Jackson, left, and Forest O'Brien, right, are shown here with their wives before a microphone shortly after landing the record-breaking endurance monoplane, Greater St. Louis. They regained the record from the Hunter brothers of Chicago by remaining aloft nearly 100 hours longer than the Hunters.

chief and the captain said apparently he lost his hold when the yacht took a sudden lurch as he reached for the handkerchief.

The disappearance was discovered by Black's valet, who went to his employer's cabin as was customary about 10 p. m. The yacht put about, thoroughly searched, and searchlights combed the waves in vain. A heavy swell was running, the captain said.

Ships Join Search. Two coast guard craft joined the search for some time, and both the coast guard and the navy were asked to lend further help.

Black was on his way to Chesapeake Bay after cruising and visiting in the vicinity of New York since July 31. He planned to visit his island home in the Chesapeake. Among his visitors on board at New York were Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, both friends of long standing.

Because of the flights, beginning in 1927, which took him around the world, to the Dutch East Indies, and to South Africa, a total of approximately 125,000 miles, Black was more widely known as an aerial globe trotter than as a publisher, capitalist and leader in civic affairs, though he had been a noted figure in Baltimore for years. He was known as the richest man in Maryland.

Though far from penniless as a youth he is credited with having carved out his own fortune and career. Born at Cumberland, Md., in 1875, he was brought by his parents to Baltimore when 7 years old, attended private schools until he was 16, and later entered the Belmont school near Boston.

He started his career as a clerk in the old Fidelity Trust and Deposit company and in 1920 was elected president of the company. Until recently he had been director in numerous big banking and industrial concerns here and in New York but was active of late in but a few.

Bomb Plane Trials to Be Directed By U. S.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 20.—(AP)—Nine persons alleged to be implicated in the bombing from an airplane of coal mine properties at Providence, Ky., and other disorders in the Webster county coal fields, will be named in federal warrants, United States District Attorney Thomas J. Sparks announced here.

Mr. Sparks said the warrants will charge conspiracy to violate federal statutes forbidding transportation of explosives from one state to another for unlawful purposes and intimidation of witnesses summoned to appear at contempt proceedings to be held at Henderson, Ky., September 2. The action will bring the trials into federal court, either here or at Owensboro, Mr. Sparks said. State authorities in both Kentucky and Illinois, where several of the defendants were arrested, have expressed willingness to turn the matter over to the federal government.

Mr. Sparks said warrants will be issued against Paul Montgomery, Murphysboro, Ill., aviator, who is said to have confessed piloting the bombing plane; Edward Heckelbeck, Zeigler, Ill., aviator, and Carroll Vaughn, Angus Meritt, Essell Grant and Ewing Riley, striking miners. Names of the other three were withheld pending their arrests.

The bombing climaxed a series of disorders in the Webster county field, which started when several mines reopened after a shut down following strikes.

Hooks and Slides

by William Braucher

My Ball Player
LEWIS ROBERT WILSON is up to his old tricks again. Time after time we have remonstrated with Lewis, and he has promised to do better. But just as he went about to prove he has mended his ways, there he goes again, kerflop! We weep with him, and then he sets out bravely again, his jaw squared, determination in his eye, and we go along right with him again.

Lewis Robert Wilson is our favorite ball player. He plays center field for the Chicago Cubs and his real name is Hack. His form has all the graceful lines of a black kitten. He fights with umpires. He argues with fans in the stands, sometimes with his fists, for Lewis has a temper. He socks homers far over the wall and swears ball players on the nose. In pinches, sometimes he lets the third strike wait lazily across the dish. In other pinches sometimes he tosses fly balls in the sun, and usually when Lewis loses a game, they want the Cubs ball games. But he is our favorite ball player.

Joy and Sorrow
Hack makes spectacular catches sometimes, and whenever Hack makes 'em, somehow they seem to be better catches than this Speaker ever could make. Those chunky piano legs of his fairly spin under him as he races to the outer wall for a long fly. He leaps, and oh, boy, what a catch! Then again, sometimes he just stands there in center waiting for a nice easy fly, and when the ball gets close to him, he waves his arms over his head in bewilderment and the stuff of the sun has lost it in the sun. But just the same, he's our favorite ball player.

He's battling Babe Ruth this year for home run honors and he isn't so many behind the Bambino. Old Hack was basking in sunshine and glory the other day, with the Cubs ahead in the ninth, when another one of those terrible things happened, the same thing that happened in the world series last year. Hack lost one in the sun and it went for a home run. The Cardinals won a battle from the Cubs.

McGraw Shipped Him
He's a castoff, you might say—one of those McGraw castoffs. He was with the Giants three years, but in 1926 John decided he didn't want Hack any longer,

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
NIGHT baseball is just a quaint old Spanish custom in Santa Barbara, Calif. It was played there in 1805. . . . Last year Fat Fothergill was "the peep's choice" in Detroit fans went into delirium when he came to the plate in a pinch. . . . but this year Fat wasn't delivering so he went to the White Sox for the waiver price. . . . Red Grange has retired as a roadhouse host near Los Angeles. . . . says he wasn't cut out for that sort of business. . . . Jockey Paul Neal, leading jockey around Chicago tracks last season was thrown into a post by a horse at Hawthorne the other day and badly hurt. . . . the horse's name was Apple Brandy. . . . Oculists say that because the light rays in night baseball come from the sides and not from above, fair players have to be good to play it. . . . and good players better.

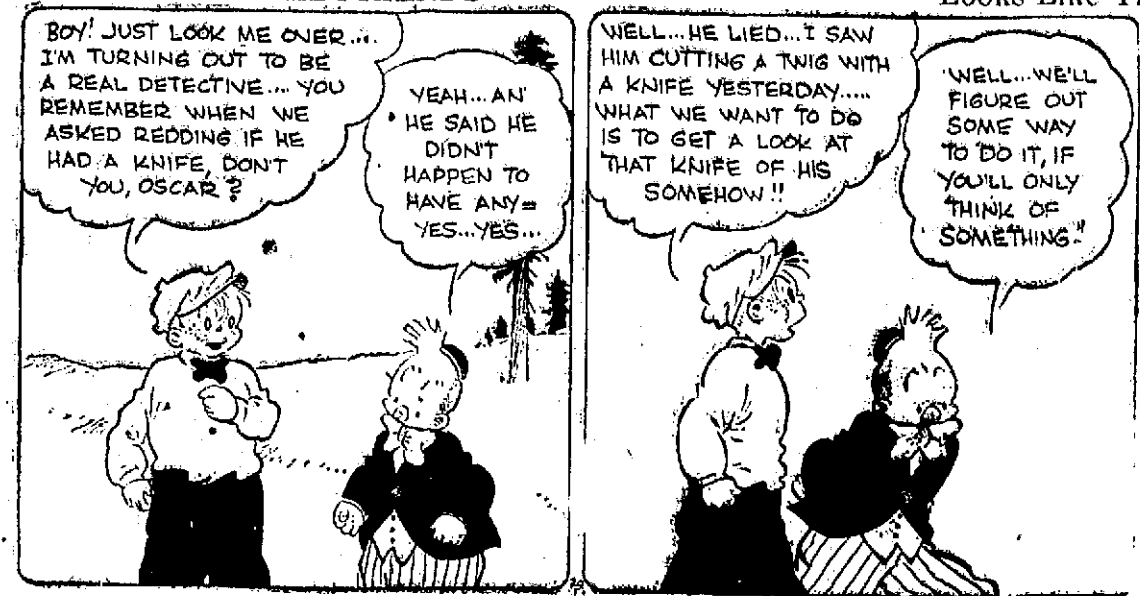

so he sent him away. The Cubs rescued him from Toledo. Hack fights and works every minute. His bat has brought the Cubs victory time after time, but so have his inglorious failures brought them defeat. You never know just what Hack is going to do, and that is another one of the reasons why he's our favorite ball player. He's always in earnest; always trying, but he's just human, after all.

Some of the lads in the press box say he gets his name by his resemblance to an old-fashioned hack. Others say they call him that because he has the physical proportions of Hackenschmidt, the old wrestler. Either reason is authentic, but for all that he remains our favorite ball player.

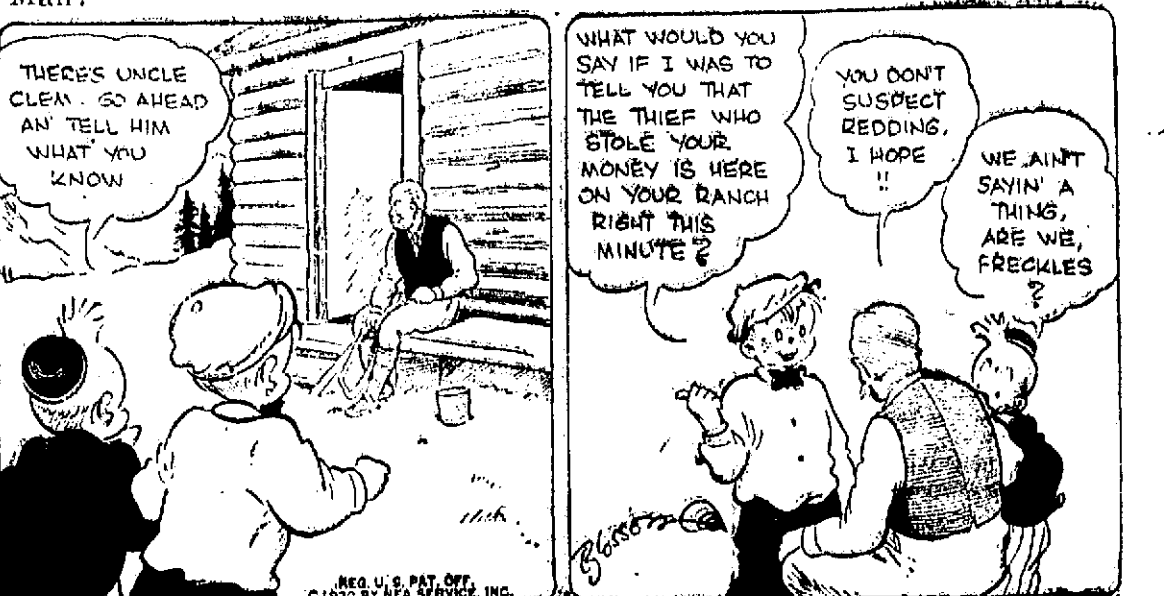

Hack can make the greatest catches in the world. He can hit the ball as far as Ruth and as often. And he can make the greatest mistakes you ever saw. One day he gets the raspberry and it seems everybody the stands against him. The very next day he hits a homer over the fence and they're all his friends.

No matter what he does he remains my ball player. I think he's wonderful.

Great Lakes Coal Trade Establishes New Record

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Great Lakes coal shipments have set a record so far this season. The movement of 20,209,000 tons to the early part of August from this and other lake ports represents the largest volume in history.

Last year's total for the same period is lower, however. Ore receipts for the same period were only 22,914,224 tons, as compared with 32,910,820 in 1929.

Industry Found In Cherry Pits

Chance Discovery By Man Leads to Thriving Business Venture

STURGEON BAY, Wis., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Oil observed by James G. Martin when he stepped on a cherry pit and crushed it several years ago prompted him to make experiments which will utilize nearly 1,000 tons of cherry pits here this year.

The oil is used in cosmetics. A meal left after the oil has been extracted, has been found suitable for baking cookies and cakes and will be used this year by a Milwaukee company.

Fertilizer for lawn and garden also is made from the seed after extraction of the oil, and the shell itself is being tried out this year as a fuel for mechanically fired furnaces.

Two chemists from the United States Department of Agriculture were sent here to conduct experimentation along the same line after Martin began to make use of this former refuse from the orchards and canning factories here.

Oldest Farm Test Station Honored

55th Anniversary of Conn. Station to Be Marked By Exhibit

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Aug. 20.—(UP)—The Connecticut agricultural experiment station, oldest in the United States, celebrates its 55th anniversary this month with an exhibition of progress in farming, to which it has made notable contributions.

Such interesting vegetable creations as the straight-necked summer squash and Canada-Learning corn, which matures in the spring "between frosts," will be placed on view for Connecticut farmers at the station's experimental farm today.

Methods of exterminating the European corn borer, the Japanese beetle, the peach moth and other pests will be demonstrated.

For more than a half century the station's experts have devoted their talents to evolution of better agricultural products and more efficient agricultural methods. Many common practices such as microscopic examination of foods to determine adulteration were introduced to the United States by Professor Samuel W. Johnson of Yale, the station's first head.

The scientist always modestly disclaimed credit for his pioneering efforts, explaining:

"I can go to my shelves and take down a history of Roman agriculture and can put my finger on almost all the good ideas which you will hear in any agricultural meeting—except those which have come with the last 30 or 40 years from the investigations of modern science."

The station first was located at Wesleyan university at Middletown but two years later was moved here when Sheffield Scientific school, now a branch of Yale university, offered its laboratories. Later the station was established independently in a house built by Eli Whitney, inventor of the cotton gin.

The station not only antedated the general movement for agricultural research in this country but came in "the dark ages of farming," according to Dr. E. H. Jenkins, who succeeded Professor Johnson as head of the station.

One of the first activities of the station was protection of farmers from charlatans who offered fake fertilizers at high prices to unsuspecting agriculturalists.

The process of shade growing tobacco, now common, was introduced here 30 years ago. Another early achievement was discovery of the potato scab and method of prevention.

Much of the modern science of nutrition rests on the work of the late Dr. Thomas Osborne of the station who investigated the effects of various diets on growth of animals.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—(P)—Property owners at Long Beach, Mich., where Alford ("Jake") Lingle, slain Tribune reporter, had his summer home have joined to thwart reported efforts of Al Capone to purchase the place. A meeting was held last night to organize against any attempt of the gang leader to claim possession of property in the summer colony.

Try to Ride "Midnight"

DETROIT, Aug. 20.—(UP)—Michigan horsemen can test their ability to ride "Midnight," unconquered bucking horse of the entire West at the Michigan State Fair Stampede which begins Labor Day. No cowboy has yet stuck to him the 11 seconds required under the stampede rules. Last spring, Roy Cox, a Kansas cowboy, made a record for this horse-staying on three jumps longer than anyone else before he was thrown.

Seek Bird's Identity

WINDFALL, Ind., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Identity is being sought of a number of birds which took up their abode in the orchard of the Tegg-Hill Crest farm near Windfall a few years ago. A distinctive type of nest is built by the birds in the orchard trees. They rarely go far from home during the daylight hours, but fly about at night presumably in search of food. The birds are about the size of ducks, with feathers resembling those of the eagle.

A Delayed Complaint

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Aug. 20.—(UP)—Cruelty Mrs. Pauline R. Signani alleges she suffered from her husband 16 years ago, is the basis for a divorce suit now on file. The couple were married in 1914, and separated in 1915.

At home after November first-

Each year thousands upon thousands of those neat, white envelopes find their way through the mails. You know what they are before you open them . . . an inner envelope, and a trim card—"Mr. and Mrs. So-and-so announce the marriage of their daughter"—and another card—"at home after November 1st, at 101 Moonlight Ave."

Every one means a new home initiated, a new family begun . . . a new set of problems faced by "two-who-are-one."

They've many a question to settle, and many a thing to buy. Furniture, kitchenware, linen and china—silverware, cereals, meat and potatoes. Familiar names will pass their lips as they buy—easily, naturally. Advertised products, quality merchandise . . . reliable . . . dependable. They've known them all their lives. But now they'll begin to read the advertisements in earnest—comparing values, budgeting expenses, choosing this, rejecting that, reserving the other till hubby gets his raise. They'll manage, all right—with the advertisements to help them.

Make it a habit to read the advertisements regularly. The days of helter-skelter selection and blindfolded buying are over. For the sake of time, economy and convenience, have your mind made up when you start out to buy.

Regular reading of the advertisements is one of the essentials of good housekeeping
